BRITISH UNDER WARREN FLED IN WILD DISORDER

Stronghold Recaptured After Terrible Carnage—Gen. Buller's Official Cable Announcing the Disaster Casts a Gloom All Over England—Gen. Woodgate Dies From His Wounds—It Is Feared That the British Losses Are Great News Of the Reverse to British Arms Caused a Sharp Decline in Stocks—Buller Warns His Men Against Boer Cunning—Buller sends List of Losses.

London, Jan. 26.—[Special Cablegram]—The Boers made a furious night charge on Spion Kop and took it after terrible carnage. The British under Gen. Warren fled in disorder. London is greatly shocked over the bad news.

Buller Reports the Calamity
London, Jan. 26.—[Special Cablegram]—England was startled this morning when it was learned that General Warren had abandoned Spion Kop, the position captured on Tuesday night. The news came in a dispatch from Gen. Buller, and was posted at the war office at 11 o'clock. Buller's dispatch was dated Spearman's camp, January 25, noon, and reads:

"General Warren's garrison, I am sorry to say, I find this morning, had in the night abandoned Spion Kop."

This was all, but it was enough to immediately precipitate the jubilation which prevailed yesterday to a feeling of deep gloom this morning.

Bad News Spread Rapidly.
The bad news spread rapidly and crowds flocked to the war office for further news of reverses, nothing however, was forthcoming.

It is generally believed that the war office has further advice which will be withheld for the present.

Friends and relatives of the officers, and men serving under Gen. Warren are fearful Warren's casualty list will be very heavy. They are anxiously clamoring for the list of losses, but the officials at the war office say that none have yet been received.

Caused a Decline in Stocks.

The news of Gen. Warren's reverse at Spion Kop caused a sharp break in stocks. The Rand shares fell two pounds and consols dropped a half pound.

British Losses At Spion Kop.

The war office has made public dispatches from Gen. Buller reporting the casualties Wednesday, while the British were attempting to hold Spion's Kop. Total number of dead twenty-four men and officers; wounded 154; missing 31. Crowds continue to throng the war offices and a keen anxiety prevails for the details of fighting.

Gen. Buller's dispatches were forwarded to the queen who was considerably agitated over the bad news.

The public opinion is that Gen. Buller's check makes the outlook for the relief of Ladysmith dark.

Where is Dundonald?

The general despondency in England as a result of Warren's failure at Spion Kop is heightened by a feeling of alarm as to the safety of Dundonald's horse. Not a word concerning Dundonald's movements have been received since Monday.

Situation in Ladysmith.

Ladysmith advices dated Jan. 21, say that the Boers are making no attempt to remove the guns posted around the beleaguered city and that the enemy is evidently determined to stubbornly oppose the advance of the relief column.

The city has been made practically impregnable since the sixth. Fortifications have been vastly strengthened since the battle of that day. The heat is terrific, fever cases are decreasing and the supplies are holding out well.

Gen. Woodgate is Dead.

London, Jan. 26.—Advices have been received from Spearman's camp that Gen. Woodgate has succumbed to the wounds he received in the attack at Spion Kop.

The Total Boer Losses.

Paris, Jan. 26.—[Special Cablegram]

—Dr. Leyds, the Boer representative, says that the total Boer losses so far are 212 killed, 1,000 wounded and 200 missing.

BULLER WARNS HIS MEN.

Cautions Them to Heed No Order but an Order to Advance.

London, Jan. 26.—A dispatch to the Times from Pietermaritzburg, dated Jan. 23, gives the text of the field order issued by Gen. Buller to his forces before the recent advance. In addition to the warning about the Boers' use of the white flag, the order contains the following passage:

"There is a way of misleading our forces by means of false orders through bugle calls sounding 'Cease fire' and 'Retire.' But there is only one order which our generals will give, which, if implicitly and loyally obeyed, as it is felt it will be, must insure complete success. That order will be 'Advance.' If any one is surprised by a sudden volley at close quarters he must remember that the only way to safety is by rushing upon the enemy, for if there is one thing the enemy cannot stand, it is a hand-to-hand fight."

WHITE CREATES A DIVERSION.

Commander at Ladysmith Seeks to Help the Relief Column.

London, Jan. 26.—The Morning Post, in a second edition, prints a dispatch from its correspondent at Spearman's Camp, dated Jan. 23, which says:

"There was heavy firing at Ladysmith yesterday. Gen. White is attacking and making a diversion. After the Boer assault Gen. White sent to Commandant-General Joubert for interment seventy-nine dead Boers, collected in the British trenches."

The Post's correspondent describes the operations from Jan. 17 to Jan. 23 and greatly praises the pluck, devotion and cheerfulness of the soldiery.

Leyds Gets No Direct News.

Paris, Jan. 26.—In an interview Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic agent of the Transvaal, stated that the sole reason for his presence in Paris was to attend a diplomatic dinner. Dr. Leyds said he receives no communications from Pretoria and is entirely independent on the newspapers for his information. But he is convinced that the Transvaal government, while bitterly regretting the spilling of so much blood, is determined to pursue the war unflinchingly till the republic is safe from English domination.

Coming to Talk for England.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Advices have been received in Washington to the effect that the eminent bimetalist, Moreton Frewen, has sailed for America. The object of his visit, it is understood, is to counteract, as far as possible, what he regards as the fast growing sentiment of hostility to England in this country, caused by her war with the Boers.

Bound for Delagoa Bay.

Harve, Jan. 26.—The Dutch cruiser Zeeland has sailed for Delagoa bay.

QUIET IN FRANKFORT

Almost All the Invaders of Yesterday Left the City This Morning.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—[Special Telegram]—All is quiet here today. Last night's demonstration by the mob of mountaineers during which over a hundred shots were fired created a semi-panic but nobody was hurt. Almost all of the invaders have left the city.

Hint at a Trap by Boers.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—The report that Spion Kop has been taken by the British has not created the least impression here. Nobody got excited over this piece of news and nobody is disheartened by it. The friends of the Boers are fully convinced that the Boers have set a trap for the British.

PRICES OF BIBLES ADVANCE

Five Firms Comprise the Trust Controlling the Country's Trade.

Baltimore, Jan. 26.—Dealers in bibles in Baltimore have received notice that an advance in the price of the holy book has gone into effect. Harry Murray, manager of the Methodist Episcopal Depository, said last evening, that Agent Hamilton of the New York house of Thomas Nelson & Sons, was here recently to notify the dealers.

Mr. Murray said there are five firms in the bible trade, all having offices in New York. They are the Oxford, International, Eyre and Spottiswood, Cambridge and Thomas Nelson & Sons. These manufacture the bibles mostly sold at present. The International is the only one that is strictly American, although some of the others have American plates and manufacture here as well as in England.

The American Bible Society is not in this agreement to raise prices. It is not really a commercial concern, for while it manufactures and sells bibles, it is more a religious organization, formed for the purpose of circulating bibles, and if it loses money it doesn't matter so much, because it is supported for the religious work by contributors.

The principal advance will be in what is known as teachers' bibles, which sell at from $1 to $3. The advance is to be from 15 to 18 per cent.

BLIZZARD RAGING IN THE FAR NORTH

SNOW WILL HELP BADGER STATE LUMBERMEN.

Storm is Prevailing Over the Lake Superior Region—Three Prisoners Make Their Escape From Waupun Prison Last Night—Spiritualist Burial at Whitewater.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 26.—The long thaw is now followed by a raging blizzard which has been coming all day from the west and north. Nearly a foot of snow has fallen here in the past 24 hours. Railway and street cars have not been hindered, but will be if the storm continues through the night. Reports from elsewhere indicate that the storm is general all over the Lake Superior region.

In Helping Lumbermen

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 26.—The snow fall of the past two days is helping lumbermen out of a very tight place. The winter's cut will be curtailed by reason of unseasonably warm weather prevailing during December and January, but with heavy snow and cold weather for the balance of the winter, the jobbers may be able to come out even on the season's work.

Waupun, Wis., Jan. 26.—Three prisoners at the penitentiary escaped last night at 5 o'clock, and a search is going on throughout the surrounding country. The men who escaped are Knaak, aged 52 years; Ratigan, 37 years; and Wilson, 45 years.

Brooks of Wheaton, Ill., made an address under inspiration, in a semi trance condition, and also read communications which Mr. Pratt had received from the other side since the death of his wife.

BASEBALL CIRCUIT HAS BEEN FIXED

Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland and Louisville Will be Dropped and the Players Sold.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 26.—There will be three big leagues under one organization this year. This was agreed upon at the conference of the circuit committee of the National League and President Ben Johnson of the American League and Pat Powers, president of the Eastern League, which has been going on in this city for several days. The details were completed this noon and the magnates left for their homes during the afternoon and evening. Although the committee would not talk the above are the facts of the situation.

This much is positively known. The National league circuit has been reduced to eight clubs, the Cleveland, Louisville, Baltimore and Washington franchises and players having been purchased outright by the League.

All that now remains is for the magnates to ratify the action of the committee at a meeting which will be held in New York, probably the last week in February.

Telephone messages are coming to Muncie from Eaton, Albany, Red Key, Portland, Winchester, Newcastle, Anderson and throughout this section making inquiry if a natural gas explosion occurred. The shock lasted four seconds.

BUBONIC PLAGUE RAGES IN HAWAII

Latest News From Honolulu Indicate That It Is Spreading

MANY SEEK TO LEAVE

Honolulu Is Quarantined By All the Other Towns On the Islands

Not a Soul is Allowed to Come in or Depart Under Any Circumstances—Death of An American Woman—Hilo Drives Off All Persons Suspected of Coming From Infected Places—Washington Authorities Not Alarmed.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 26.—Honolulu now is practically isolated from the rest of the world. The mail steamers refuse to carry passengers from the city, and even the other towns of the island barring their doors against the people, mail and goods.

People Anxious to Leave
Thousands of people want to leave the city, but the steamers, with the exception of those running to San Francisco, will not carry them, and they demand an agreement to the effect that the passengers will go into quarantine at San Francisco for two weeks at their own expense. The purser of the Mio was refused several hundred applicants for passage the people rowing out to the steamer in small boats and endeavoring to board it.

Holding Japanese Steamers.

There are 2,000 Japanese immigrants in quarantine and two large Japanese steamers in the harbor waiting to land another thousand imported laborers. As the plague has greatly injured trade it is proposed to build a wharf on the opposite side of the harbor from Honolulu, where goods destined for other parts of the islands can be landed from the ocean liners and shipped without touching at the plague infected city.

In some parts of the island there is already a scarcity of many articles.

Up to Jan. 17 there had been twenty-eight deaths among the natives, and one white lady, Mrs. Boardman, had succumbed to the dread disease.

Mrs. Boardman lived in splendid style in one of the best residence sections of the city, and when the fact became known that she had died of the plague the excitement became intense. Mrs. Boardman is believed to have taken the infection from a dead rat found in her store.

The people of Hilo positively refuse to allow the Honolulu steamers to call there and Sheriff Andrews, in his capacity as health officer, destroyed the Chinese and Japanese sacks and took the letters out of the envelopes and fumigated them. Attorney-General Cooper went down to relieve him of his office, but was met by an armed mob, who refused to allow him to land. Ten blocks in the plague-stricken districts were burned.

Plague in New South Wales.

Sydney, N. S. W., Jan. 26.—A wharf laborer has been taken ill of the plague. The physicians claim that he contracted it through a flea bite.

No Alarm at Washington

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—No information regarding the latest phase of the plague situation at Honolulu as reported by the steamer just arrived at Victoria has been received by the Marine Hospital service here. Surgeon General Wyman feels confident that the authorities are doing all in their power to prevent its spread, as shown by the action of Dr. Cooper in burning ten blocks, which are presumably in Chinatown.

NEW RULER FOR CHINA

Abdication of Kwang Su Reported and Suicide Rumored—Dowager Empress in Control.

London, Jan. 26.—According to a special dispatch from Shanghai it is reported there that Emperor Kwang Su has committed suicide.

Shanghai, Jan. 26.—The North China Daily News published an edict signed last night by Emperor Kwang Su appointing as emperor in his place Pu Sing, the 9-year-old son of Prince Tuan. The new emperor will ascend the throne January 31.

Peking, Jan. 26.—The imperial edict issued yesterday says that, owing to the emperor's poor health, he is unable to conduct the business of state and appoints Pu Chun, son of Prince Tuan, to his place.

The emperor apparently has been compelled by the dowager empress to abdicate about the Chinese New Year, though it is understood this will meet with considerable opposition in certain court circles. The dowager, however, intends to carry out the program which she has been planning for years.

PHILADELPHIA ADMITS FAILURE

Unable to Raise $100,000 Pledged to Republican Committee.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 26.—The Citizens' association, which pledged itself to raise $100,000 for the republican campaign fund and meet all local expenses of the national convention, admits its inability to make good its promises, and has called on Mayor Ashbridge to reorganize the enterprise in conformity with the popular demand.

Intimations of dissatisfaction among members of the Citizens' association were given several days ago. Arrangements, including the selection of the auditorium of the exposition for the meeting place of the convention and the raising of the $100,000, were made by the executive committee, but the finance committee made practically no headway at all. The actual amount pledged is said to be $11,000. Paid solicitors made efforts to increase it, but their work did not bring it up to the $100,000 mark, and their services were dispensed with.

As a matter of fact the Philadelphia delegation went to work with no idea that its offer would be entertained, let alone accepted, and returned home seemingly dazed with the responsibility assumed.

What Mayor Ashbridge will decide to do is as yet a matter of conjecture.

CIVIL WAR ISSUE REVIVED IN SENATE

SENATOR CHANDLER DEFENDS NORTH AGAINST SOUTH.

Denies That the Object of the War Was to Give Franchise to Slaves—Babcock Re-elected as Wisconsin National Committeeman—Washington News Notes.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Just at the close of yesterday's session of the senate a speech delivered by Mr. Money of Mississippi on the race question in the south precipitated a heated colloquy between him and Mr. Chandler (rep.) of New Hampshire, in which the latter alleged that the southern senators, by intemperate statements, were opening the whole southern question in the senate after it was supposed to be dead.

The charge which Mr. Chandler particularly criticized was made by Mr. Morgan of Alabama, who is absent at present, but as it had been reiterated substantially, in Mr. Chandler's opinion, by other senators he declared that he did not purpose to permit it go unrefuted.

The charge was that the civil war had been precipitated by designing politicians of the north for the purpose of putting the slaves on a political and social equality with the southern whites. Mr. Chandler's refutation of the statement was made with characteristic vehemence and aggressiveness, but as no reply was offered the incident closed there.

Babcock is Re-elected.

The Wisconsin house delegation held a meeting last evening to elect a member of the congressional committee. Representative Babcock was chosen as the state's member of the committee, and his name will be sent to the joint caucus of the senate and house republicans to be held next Tuesday. The selection of Mr. Babcock as the chairman of the congressional committee is regarded as certain to follow when the committee is organized.

Wisconsin Votes Against Roberts

Every Wisconsin member voted for the resolution excluding Mr. Roberts of Utah and declaring his seat vacant. At a meeting of the Wisconsin delegation yesterday it was decided to support the amendment offered by Representative Lacey of Iowa in favor of the expulsion of the Utah man, as well as to exclude him. Judge Jenkins was the only member of the delegation who voted for the minority plan. But on the final vote on the majority resolution expelling Roberts without giving him an opportunity to be sworn in. Mr. Jenkins joined with his colleagues in supporting the plan, all others having been voted down.

Greater Part of the Insurgent Troops Believed to Be Seeking Their Homes

The War in the Philippines is Over—No Further Surrender Can Be Hoped For—Action of Congress Imperatively Necessary to Outline a Policy For the Islands—Time is Ripe For a Conciliation Policy.

Washington, Jan. 26.—[Special Telegram]—General Otis reported this morning that Hayes' cavalry had driven the insurgents out of Luzena, Tayabas and adjacent towns, and rescued a number of Spanish prisoners. He says the enemy have dispersed and the greater part of them are believed to be seeking their homes. Hayes' casualties were one killed and three mortally wounded and two slightly wounded.

Need a Peace Policy

Manila, Jan. 26.—The war in the Philippines is over. No further surrender can be hoped for. The danger in the present situation is that a bloody feud may arise between the American army and the Filipinos.

This danger can be greatly lessened by action of congress, which is now imperative, outlining the policy of the government in the Philippines. It is likely that many insurgents are still holding out for the very terms which congress will be willing to give. The time is ripe for a conciliatory policy, allowing the Filipinos the right to have some say as to the nature of the government under which they will be obliged to live.

ISSUES A SWEEPING COURT INJUNCTION
Judge Ludwig Enjoins Every Citizen of Milwaukee In the Franchise Case.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 26.—[Special Telegram]—What is held to be the most sweeping injunction ever issued, not accepting the infamous strike order of Judge Jenkins in the Northern Pacific case, was signed by Judge Ludwig in the Superior court today. It is so broad that it not only covers every taxpayer and every abutting property owner on streets covered by street railway lines and upon streets covered by new franchises, but it also restrains every citizen, whether property owner or not, from instituting proceedings of any kind which effect in any way the subject matter of the street railway ordinance. The application for the order created a sensation.

Tolstoi Assails England.

Moscow, Jan. 26.—Count Leo Tolstoi in an interview published in the Russki Listok, denounces the war in South Africa as showing the "sordid and soulless commercialism that rules the world." He says:

FIFTY FIVE SPORTS ATTENDED FROM HERE

JANESVILLE FIGHTING COCKS WIN THE MONEY.

In the City of Madison Last Evening They Captured Three Out of Five Hard Fought Battles—Many Men of Prominence in Attendance—Local Sports Return on Early Trains.

Fifty-five from Janesville attended a cocking main last evening at Madison. Janesville birds carried off the greater portion of the battles by winning three out of a total of five fought events.

Madison money was scarce and local sports were on hand with cash that several times covered the amount held by those who were backing the cocks owned in the Capitol City.

At 10 o'clock last evening two hundred sports assembled at a secluded spot in the very heart of the city of Madison and till the small hours of this morning watched with excitement one of the greatest cocking mains ever held in the state of Wisconsin.

Noted gaming sports were in attendance from the cities of Beloit, Darlington, Milwaukee, Baraboo, Rockford, Edgerton, Stoughton, Janesville and Madison. The sports from Janesville formed the largest outside delegation. Beloit sports were a close second in point of number, the Line City having fully two dozen representatives at the pit side when the first pair of cocks were dropped into the inclosure.

For the past three weeks the battle has been known to the greater portion of cock fight lovers in the southern portion of the Badger state. For the past week the matter seemed to be no great guarded secret. Those in charge did not seem to lose any sleep over any thought that their patrons would be disturbed by the members of the Madison police force. That part of the program had been well looked after, it is alleged. With the assurance that the police of Madison were not on, the promoters of the bloody affair had no trouble in disposing of all the tickets of admission that they cared to dispose of. Only true lovers of the Spanish sport were invited.

Yesterday afternoon fifteen of the best blooded game cocks ever raised in the southern portion of Wisconsin were shipped by express from Janesville. The understanding was that the battle was to be between fifteen Janesville and fifteen birds owned by Madison parties.

The greater portion of the visiting sports arrived in Madison after dark. That was the order as given out. At the Northwestern and Milwaukee road depots the sports were met by men who were detailed by the committee to look after this part of the program. This was found necessary because but few of the visitors were aware of the place of battle. Arriving sports on the Milwaukee road had but a short distance to walk. Two blocks away brought them to the spot.

Here the men were ushered into a frame building. Then down a long hall which brought them to the foot of a steep set of stairs. Then to the floor above the crowd noisily found its way. Here they were confronted by a well arranged cocking pit such as one would find in a place where the fighting of cocks was carried on as a means of business as well as pleasure.

The pit was about twelve feet in width and length. Its sides were well cared for so that the birds could not escape with any amount of ease. Two large lamps directly above the pit formed excellent illumination. The seats about were so arranged that every man could see every move made by the cocks. Each sport was taxed fifty cents. Every seat was occupied when the first match was announced.

The first event was scheduled for 10 o'clock, but it was nearer 11 when the fighting commenced. Each cock was to weigh in at the pit side, or give or take two ounces. One and a half inch steel spurs were used. Milwaukee rules prevailed through the entire five mains.

Each battle was for a ten-dollar purse, together with a twenty-five-dollar stake to the side having the greatest number of victories. No sooner were the first two birds thrust into the pit than plenty of ready cash commenced to change hands. On the five battles it is estimated that several hundred dollars changed hands. Each one of the battles were hard fought, resulting in the death of several cocks.

In only one event were the birds taken from the pit because they refused to fight. When the last pair of cocks were brought out it was well towards daylight. That was why five battles were fought in place of fifteen. Just as the last star was blinking its eye in the heavens the last of sports found their way to their homes. Of course the greater portion of those present resided in the city of Madison and—many of those who sat at the pit side were men whose names if revealed would cause a sensation.

Those living out of town caught early trains before the sleeping citizens of Madison were out of their beds. The main as a whole was the most successful one that has been pulled off in the west in many months. It is said that another one will soon be pulled off and that the sports have already decided that Madison shall be the field of battle.

TOBACCO MARKET VERY QUIET NOW

Buyers Are Shaving off Fair Slices From Unsold Remnants In Farmers Hands.

Buyers are quietly nibbling away at the '99 crop but the movement nowhere reaches the magnitude of the earlier rush, though it slowly but surely is shaving off pretty fair slices from the unsold remnants in growers' hands, says the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter at Edgerton.

Buyers assert that trading is conducted easier now than for some time past, since the growers are more pliable and the bulk of late sales occurring at more moderate prices than have prevailed heretofore. Much of the tobacco now moving is on an export basis, though holders of the better grades are more pliable and the bulk of late sales occurring at more moderate prices than have prevailed heretofore. Much of the tobacco now moving is on an export basis, though holders of the better grades are reported to be willing to shade their asking prices. The present movement is likely to continue for some time before the crop is lifted.

Old leaf continues to move readily and the stock remaining either in first hands or with packers is being rapidly depleted. Mr. Warner, a cigar manufacturer of Chicago, picked up about 100 cases of '97 and '98 in this section, including 22 cases of '96 of John Roam, 22 cases of '98 of J. Martin. Peter N. Johnson sold 160 cases of '98 to Child Soverhill & Porter sold the last of their '95 packing, 500 cases to an eastern party this week. T. B. Earle bought 500 cases of Barnard & Wilder for the Bamberger account.

The breaking up of the roads during the week caused a temporary lull in deliveries at the warehouses, though the packers are receiving much faster than they can handle despite the fact that a good deal of bundle leaf is being shipped out of the state.

The shipments out of storage again reach upwards of 30 carloads for the week. 1571 cases, to all points from this station. Twelve carloads were received from outside points for handling in this market. Less than 3000 cases of cigar leaf were exported from New York since last report.

It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." PROTEST TO LEGISLATURE.

A Thousand Armed Men Gather at Frankfort, Ky.

PRESENT STRONG MEMORIAL

Commit No Violence, but Stack Their Arms in Office of Commissioner of Agriculture, Lunch with Clerk of Appeals, Hold Meetings, and Go Home.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 25.—A special train of seventeen coaches pulled into this city Thursday morning bearing between 1,000 and 1,200 armed men from the eastern part of the state, allegedly members of all parties. Hundreds of wily mountaineers bore Winchester shot-guns, and they were accompanied by farmers, merchants, professional men, politicians, and even a few ministers of the gospel, all similarly equipped. The little party moved at once to the capitol grounds, where the men proceeded in squads to the headquarters of the commissioner of agriculture, where they laid their arms aside, after which they fell into line near the offices of the clerk of the court of appeals, where hot coffee and sandwiches were served. Later in the day a huge mass meeting was held, and a petition was adopted calling upon the representatives of the people in the general assembly to preserve the constitution of the commonwealth and to allow no outrage to be perpetrated against it in the interest of any one.

At whose instance they came no one appears to know, but as yet all the anti-Goebel leaders deny responsibility for their presence. As a matter of fact, however, telegraphic inquiries were sent to all parts of Kentucky Wednesday as to the number each county would send to Frankfort "who can be relied upon to aid in seeing to it that the will of the people as expressed at the polls November last is not overthrown."

One who seemed to be in authority, when asked as to the object of the invasion of the state capital, said: "We are from Edmonson, Barron, Alton, Metcalfe and Bell counties mostly. We are neither desperadoes nor murderers. Every one of us is a citizen and a taxpayer, and we are here to see that our constitutional rights are not destroyed."

Goebel leaders mingled with the visitors with a view of learning their intentions, but they got little satisfaction. Goebel and his managers declare that the presence of the army here was for the purpose of intimidating the members of the contest committees and terrorizing the members of the general assembly. However, most of the visitors left for their homes tonight at 8:30 o'clock on a special train over the Louisville & Nashville road, saying they hoped it would not be necessary for them to return to Frankfort.

The meeting held in front of the capitol building was called to order by ex-Secretary of State Charles Finley, republican, who in part said: "Fellow Kentuckians: We are gathered here from every corner of the state exercising the common right of all honest men to hold lawful assembly and to petition their public servants. This is no partisan gathering. There are men here who are democrats and men here who are republicans; men who wore the blue and men who wore the gray."

The following committee was named to prepare the memorial: Judge Catton, republican, of Pulaski county; Dr. Thomas F. Berry, democrat, of Louisville; Claude Chinn, democrat, of Fayette county; Charles Finley of Frankfort, and A. W. Hazen, democrat, of Whitley county. The petition was reported without delay and promptly adopted.

The same committee was directed to present it to the two houses of the legislature. However, Speaker Trimble would not allow the memorial to be presented to the house, which met behind close doors, "because of the presence of armed men in the capitol grounds." The committee will present the paper to the senate tomorrow.

Two Lives Lost in Fire.
Dunkirk, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Two lives were lost in a fire at Fredonia, a village three miles south of here, Thursday morning. Miss Alice Huntington was burned to death while trying to save her personal effects, and Warren Leopold Bretzchgi, a printer, lost his life while asleep.

The fire started in the Pan-American hotel at 3 o'clock from some cause unknown, and before it was under control had done damage placed at $200,000. The power house of the Dunkirk & Fredonia Street Car company was destroyed, together with all the cars.

Wife Deporter Hidden by Attorney.
Chicago, Jan. 26.—W. A. Meyers, accused of deserting his wife and three small children in Stevens' Point, Wis., last November, was found by Detectives at the house of his attorney, where he had been living ever since he abandoned his family. The fugitive was placed on a train in charge of an officer from the Wisconsin city and taken back to his home. When he was taken into custody he said he would ask his wife to forgive him.

Dowie Prays for Zion.
Waukegan, Ill., Jan. 26.—The first payments, due Feb. 1, on part of the 6,000 acres purchased for Dowie's Zion city, were made to Benton farmers Thursday. Edward Wheelock and H. W. Judd of Chicago met the sellers at Nelson Cole's residence and distributed certified checks on a Waukegan bank. In all, $42,000 was paid out. The first payments on more land, amounting to $20,000, fall due March 1.

A POET OF YANKEEDOM.

Holman F. Day Is the Riley of Way Down East.

What James Whitcomb Riley is to Hoosierdom Holman F. Day is fast becoming to all of that territory vaguely defined as "way down east." He sings of the woods, the farm and the sea and of all the things the "state of Maine" do therein and on. There are light lilt and rippling melody to his song. He uses not the hackneyed images of artifice. His metaphors are of the soil, and they are eloquent of the homely, everyday life and thought of the people around him. It is evident that he knows the Pine Tree State from Caribou, up in the Aroostook, to Kittery, down in York, and that no phase of life has escaped his observation.

Much of Mr. Day's verse is spiced with quaint Yankee humor. Some of it is tinged with pathos, and here and there are lines with no excuse whatever save their native beauty. Yet he does not style himself a poet. He calls himself a "verse carpenter." But the critics will save Mr. Day from his own modesty.

Actually he is a newspaper man, engaged in writing about people and affairs in Maine for the Lewiston Journal. He began his education in a Quaker school at Vassalboro, where he smashed traditions by learning Latin and Greek. Then he went through Colby college, being graduated in 1887. Mr. Day's verses printed in the Lewiston Journal have been widely copied and are much appreciated. He is soon to issue a book of them, and then the reviewers will have a chance to spread his fame. If you have not seen any of his work, here is a sample. It is full of the swing of the river driver's song and is entitled, "Here's to the Stout Ash Pole." One verse is as follows:

We've ridden the gorges on vicious logs, and we've always waded safe to the land; So long as we rode with the spikes in our boots and the long, limber pole in our hand; We've pined at the jaws on the brink of the dam, and the pole men stood by like a man, And then in the dash for our lives in the crash the pole braced us up as we ran.

Hoory! As we yelled through the smother and ran.

AN ALASKAN CHIEF.

First to Visit the Home of the Great White Father.

Chief Johnson of the Takon tribe is paying his first visit to Washington. He is the first Alaskan chief to make a pilgrimage to the home of "the great white father," and he guilelessly admits that he is the biggest red chief in the territory. He has paid his respects to the president, seen the white chiefs in powwow at the capitol building and is making a thorough inspection of the great public wigwams.

The chief has discarded temporarily the big cap of rare skins and feathers that characterizes his position when with his tribe and wears instead a flat, front brimmed headpiece, such as might adorn with impunity a leader of a rural brass band or a Pullman car conductor.

A full, round face and a jet black mustache are the distinguishing features of the chief. While he uses some English words with ease it is apparent that he is not thoroughly in love with our vocabulary as a whole, preferring to switch off to the vernacular common to his semi-arctic tribe.

- 1761—J. B. Bernadotte, French soldier who became king of Sweden, born; died 1844. Bernadotte was the son of a lawyer and became a soldier through enlistment as a common marine. On the death of the crown prince of Sweden he was elected heir to the throne and became a colleague of Charles XIII, whom he succeeded.

THE RAILROADS

Twenty-five thousand men are employed on Wisconsin railroads. They all earn good wages, and get their money—and spend it—as regularly as the first of the month comes. Yet some people would squeeze the railroads at every turn. Like the famous gentleman of bygone days, they would kill the goose that lays the golden egg. Wisconsin railroads pay more than half of Wisconsin's taxes; they employ more men than any other industry; they pay higher average salaries, and they give employment to men exclusively. They do more to build up the cities they pass through than could be accomplished by the combined efforts of the whole population. They do more to develop the country from which their business is drawn than all other agencies combined. The trains carry progress, civilization and humanity to the furthest ends of the earth. Where the whistle of the locomotive is heard, there, too, is the busy hum of commerce, the reverential ringing of the church bells, and the flag on the little red school house. The public library is installed on the ground that was once occupied by the diva that the railroad killed. The crossroads blacksmith shop becomes the manufacturing plant, and the country road the city thoroughfare. The city newspaper is served to busy people, and the corner grocery store—with his destructive jack knife, and still more destructive tongue—is driven away because his room is worth more than his company. His occupation is gone, and if he doesn't go to work, the policeman "puts him where the dogs can't bite him."

No Wisconsin city boasts of a better class of citizens than the "railroad men." The merchant rates them as "preferred risks"—he knows their bills will all be promptly paid and their credit is as good as gold. They are enterprising, public spirited, patriotic and progressive. No dolt can long remain of the payroll of the railway company—they hire the best men they can get. No dead beat, no drunkard, no vicious person, no man with any bad habits whatsoever, can sign his name on the back of the railway check—not more than once.

And what does the railway company ask in return? Only the right to run its business; make a charge for its service that it deems reasonable; and the protection of the laws—nothing more. It asks only what is required by every other business enterprise.

The railroad, generally, makes money, and it is right that it should. There may be cases where its rates are extortionate, yet the same charge can be made against almost any other business combination. It may be charged that "it reaches out and grasps everything in sight," yet we all know that the business that stands stationary is already started on the downward course—the minute it ceases to expand it begins to contract.

The railroad asks for a right of way, perhaps, in a city. It wants the use of a public street—a privilege that cannot be denied any living person or thing that observes the laws. It is willing to pay a reasonable damage to the owners of surrounding property, and observe all city regulations. Could more be asked? In justice, no, but in practice, yes. The railroad is owned by a "rich corporation," and becomes, therefore, common prey. Perhaps the people or municipalities stoop to things they would denounce in anyone else—especially in a railway company—yet they justify their acts by the reflection, "the company can stand it."

This is not as it should be. Janesville, for instance, has received great benefits from her railway connections. Take them away and the grass would soon grow in the streets; buildings would fall into ruins, and the people would "move over to the station." Every foot of new line brings with it valuable commercial facilities. Every sidetrack built puts a competitive weapon in the hands of the money earning and money spending manufacturer and his employees.

And what is the drawback? Additional danger to human life, perhaps, added inconvenience to the people near the line. Yet no city can grow without incurring danger, and enduring inconvenience—where one man's existence is imperiled, the existence of a thousand is made more pleasant and more profitable.

"Trade follows the flag," and civilization follows trade—and the flag is the bit of green cloth that flutters from the rear of the "special freight."

Give us more railways, and we will have more of everything that we need. Look not exclusively at the earning capacity of the line, but glance at "the other side of the shield." Lend encouragement to the railroads, and they will return the compliment many fold—nothing ventured, nothing gained.

If our British cousins want a good man to get their army into shape, we would suggest that they correspond with one General Russell A. Alger, of Michigan—a man who accomplished more, in a shorter space of time, and in the face of more difficult obstacles, than any other man who ever tackled the job. As time passes, and hysterical outbreaks are succeeded by cool reasoning, General Alger's record in the war department grows brighter and brighter. Recent events have brought his work into sharp contrast with that of some others in the same line, and the comparison is extremely favorable to the Michigan man.

The latest "green goods" game is the best of all. The gentleman who owned the bad money said in his circular, "I will sell the 'cheap money' at a ratio of 16 to 1—$32,000 worth for $2,000 in gold standard cash." Another circular read: "Many people in this part of the country have no scruples against an increase in the volume of currency. In fact, many believe it would be a good thing and should be done by the government, as witness the last presidential campaign for flat money." The game didn't work, however, and in consequence, John Reedy, the seller of the "goods," is now on trial in the United States circuit court of New York.

The disagreement between Gov. Tanner of Illinois, and United States Senator Cullom has not yet reached an acute stage. It is likely, however, that Governor Tanner will know a heap more about politics after his Uncle Shelby gets among the voters and begins to cull 'em out.

Strange to say, none of the women who are seeking to enlighten each other through The Milwaukee Journal on "How Best to Retain Your Husband's Affections" has yet begun her story with the historic sentence "first get your rabbit."

Sousa, like every other musician, needed a discoverer, and it was due to the appreciation of the manager of the Academy of Music in Philadelphia, Miss Hannah Harris, that the director of the little Marine band received an introduction to a concert audience. Gilmore had for many years played an annual engagement under her management. He was taken ill and unable to fill out his schedule. Miss Harris was worried, for the brass band had always been a popular feature. She had heard Sousa play in the White House gardens. She liked the swing and dash of his music. But she was uncertain if his small band would be strong enough to fill the great academy. She resolved to risk it. Sousa never played in concert before. He tried hard and won. Philadelphia went mad over him. Miss Harris had played a trump card.

Hoofs as Royal Mementoes.

The prince and princess of Wales show their affection for their horses in a curious way. When a favorite dies, its hoofs are cut off and polished, and the horse's name is inscribed on each hoof. There are placed in a row in one of the harness-rooms at Sandringham. On the wall above are photographs or prints of the owners of the hoofs. The prince and princess have favorite dogs as well as favorite horses. Against a wall at the back of their residence at Sandringham may be seen a stone, "To the memory of dear old Rover."

Speech and Hands.

A professor who has made a study of children says he has discovered why the majority of the people are right-handed. Infants use both hands until they begin to speak. The motor speech function controls the right side of the body, and the first right-handed motions are expressive motions, tending to help out speech. As speech grows so does right-handedness.

BANK STOCKHOLDERS OFFER $50,000 CASH

EDGERTON MEN MAKE PROPOSITION TO DEPOSITORS.

May For All Time to Come Be the Means of Settling this Noted Case That For Two Years Has Been in the Rock County Courts—Other Details.

Present indications are that the Bank of Edgerton case will soon be stricken from the circuit court of Rock county. There is some reason to believe that the litigation over the failure of the Bank of Edgerton, that has been hanging in the courts for over two years past, is in a fair way to reach a settlement. The committee in charge of the interests of a very large number of depositors have requested Receiver L. H. Towne to act as a mediator and secure, if possible, a proposition from the stockholders and directors of the Bank of Edgerton of what amount they would pay towards making good a very large deficit.

In response to this request the stockholders have, through their attorneys, made public an offer to pay $50,000 to be relieved from all liability growing out of the failure. So far, the receiver has been able to pay but 30 per cent. of dividends and this offer now made would add to the assets enough to permit of about 25 per cent. further dividends.

The offer of settlement, which is signed by Fethers, Jeffris & Monat of Janesville, concludes as follows:

"To summarize this matter we can now offer forty seven thousand five hundred dollars ($47,500) with a possibility of making that up to fifty thousand dollars ($50,000)."

"You understand that some of the defendants insist that there is no legal liability whatever upon their part aside from that of the liability of a stockholder."

"The depositors must take into consideration the fact that this is not entirely a question of legal liability but that there is also the question of the financial ability of some of the defendants to pay; and, it so happens that in the case of some of the defendants who are, perhaps, most able to pay, there is the gravest question as to their legal liability; so that, when you come to consider both phases of the matter, we feel that you must say that our offer is not only fair but just and equitable, remembering that these defendants have lost their stock besides the amounts they have had on deposit in the bank, and must now make a still further sacrifice to bring about a settlement. It will come very hard to men who feel that they are in no wise to blame, having simply relied upon the honesty of the same man every other depositor relied upon."

"In view of the offer made by these defendants we think no fair minded man can say that, if not accepted, they are not justified in defending themselves against further loss to the full extent which the law permits."

"If this matter is to be settled we hope that immediate action will be taken to that end, and thus put a stop to this very expensive litigation for both sides."

MINCE SAUCE.—When mince sauce is mentioned, a few imperfectly chopped leaves floating around in a sea of small vinegar is suggested, such as one is offered in hotels and sometimes in private houses. The following recipe is recommended: Take a sufficiently large bunch of mint to fill, when finely chopped, two or three tablespoonfuls; chop the rind of a good sized lemon very fine and add it to the mint in a sauce-pan. To four ounces of best vinegar add one and a half ounces of fresh lemon juice and dissolve in this as much finely powdered best loaf sugar as it will absorb. Pour this solution over the mint in the sauce-pan and let it stand an hour or so. Try to get your mint clean that it may not need washing, which tends to take off the freshness. If need be, rinse the bunch under a flowing tap and let the water drain off on a dry cloth. With this sauce even four years old mutton may be made to taste something like spring lamb.

J. W. DAVIS DIES FROM BULLET WOUND

SHOT DURING REBELLION AT BATTLE OF ALUSTA.

Wound Never Thoroughly Healed, Resulting in Peritonitis—Resided Many Years at Emerald Grove Where He Was Highly Respected—Leaves Wife and Seven Children.

J. W. Davis died at 12 o'clock noon today at his home in this city, 113 Cornelia street. The cause of his death was peritonitis brought on as the result of a bullet wound received in the war of the rebellion.

While participating in the battle of Alusta, Florida, Mr. Davis was struck in the right hip by a confederate bullet. His wound was at first thought to be serious but good nursing soon resulted in his being able to leave for the north. The bullet was never extracted. For the past thirty years the wound has given him trouble and at times he found it necessary to call in a physician. A year ago Mr. Davis was taken ill with the grip and this disease settled about the wound causing peritonitis.

Mr. Davis was a member of the One Hundred and Fiftieth New York Volunteers enlisting at Fonda, New York.

After the war Mr. Davis removed to Wisconsin and for many years made his home at Emerald Grove prior to his removal to this city. Besides a wife he leaves five sons, George A., Abram J., John and D. W. Davis of this city and Joseph R. Davis of Emerald Grove; two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Austin and Mrs. Mary Knoff of Janesville.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—W. R. Woodford, president and general manager of the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling railroad, today read a telegram or derring no further shipments of coal to Chicago. It was stated the market there was congested and the prices of fuel were falling. Indiana block coal had dropped 50 cents a ton. FIVE KILLED, SEVEN INJURED.

Runaway Train Strikes Car of Dynamite With Terrible Result.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 26.—Five men were killed and seven injured, so far as known, by a wreck and explosion of a car of dynamite late Thursday night in the yards of the New Jersey Central railroad at Ashley. A runaway train dashed down the mountain into the Ashley yards, striking a car of dynamite, which exploded, wrecking the roundhouse, shattering seven engines near by, tearing up tracks as if they had been spider's web and hurling masses of iron, rails and ties in all directions. All the houses in the town of Ashley were shaken, and those at Nanticoke, Plymouth, Edwarsville, Glen Lyon, Newtown, Kingston, Forty Port and this city trembled. In this city the shock was like a thunderclap. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

TRAMP BILLS PAID THIS AFTERNOON

Rock County and Clinton Officers Square After Matter Has Hung Fire Since 1898.

The last act in the Clinton tramp bill drama took place at the court house this afternoon when Treasurer Thorpe paid over to Attorney E. D. McGowan the sum of $535.43. One more bill is to be paid amounting to $20.89 which sum will be paid to ex-Judge Rodgers of Clinton.

This brings the total up to $556.32. The county will also be called on to pay half the clerk of the court's fees. This sum is just one half of the original bill as presented in 1898 by Clinton officers and justices against Rock county for payment. The county board at that time refused to pay the bill on the grounds that injustice was connected with the accounts. It is alleged that the Clinton officers arrested tramps on the wholesale order for no other reason than to secure the fees thus desired.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Gen. Schwan has succeeded in breaking the backbone of the last vestige of organized opposition to the authority of the United States on the island of Luzon, in the provinces of Cavite and Laguna de Bay, which districts are now occupied by Schwan's force. In fact, the entire island of Luzon, with the exception of some distant isolated points, is in the possession of American soldiers. In an engagement between Schwan and the enemy at San Diego, eighty insurgents were killed and a greater number wounded. The American loss was one man killed and four teen wounded.

CRISIS REACHED IN CHINA.

Revolutionary Upheaval Predicted—Foreign Intervention Imminent.

Shanghai, Jan. 26.—As usual when important events are transpiring in the empire, the most excited views and rumors prevail here in connection with the alleged dethronement of the emperor, Kwang Hsu, and a great revolutionary upheaval is predicted. Foreign intervention is declared to be imminent. It is alleged that Russia is resolved to support Pu Chun, and that a French naval force has arrived at Peking. It is declared that Kwang Hsu has either committed suicide or been murdered. The foreign legations do not appear to share in the excitement, and they minimize the importance of the edict.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

LONDON WAITS FOR NEWS.

Nothing Received from Buller Since Thursday Morning.

SPION KOP HELD BY BRITISH.

Great Anxiety on the Part of the Public to Hear the Report of Casualties, Which It Is Believed Are Very Heavy.

London, Jan. 26.—6 a. m.—At 6 o'clock this morning we know as much as we did at 10 o'clock Thursday morning—nothing more. Gen. Buller's dispatch announcing the taking of Spion Kop is the only intelligence which has reached London, and that is so brief that we have little detail of what has happened.

If Spion Kop is situated as indicated, at a point where two ridges unite, running northeast to Dewdrop and northwest to Acton Homes, its occupation by British troops must have cut the advance Boer position in two. According to Gen. Buller's dispatch, Gen. Warren thinks the enemy's position along the Tugela has been rendered untenable by the capture of Spion Kop, assuming, of course, that the British are able to hold it. The Boers were holding a very long line. It was something like thirty miles long, their extreme right being at Spion Kop and Mount Tabamanyana, their center opposite Pottgieter's Drift and their left at Colenso. It was impossible for them to be equally strong in force throughout this distance. While they held Gen. Lyttleton's brigade in check at Pottgieter's Drift, they tried an attack at Colenso, which proved ineffectual against Barton's brigade.

It was natural for them to suppose that the attack, which had gone on almost uninterruptedly for four days on the western slopes of Mt. Tabamanyana would be continued on the fifth. They, therefore, may have strengthened their right, leaving Spion Kop, which it is possible they deemed inaccessible, with only a small garrison. This was Gen. Warren's chance.

The Boers massed on Mount Tabamanyana discovered on Wednesday morning that Spion Kop had been taken by the British attack and endeavored to drive Warren's men from the position which they had won. For the whole of Wednesday they stormed with shot and shell, but the British held on. When Buller sent his telegram, Spion Kop was still in British hands.

Owing to a night march and the sudden surprise of the Boer garrison, Warren did not suffer many casualties before dawn broke, but Buller states that the shell fire of the enemy was very deadly during Wednesday and that the British loss was considerable.

It is hardly possible the British were able to get any guns up to Spion Kop before Wednesday night. In consequence they were probably unable to reply to the Boer artillery on the surrounding eminences.

There is no doubt, however, that during Wednesday and Thursday the British guns were moved up under cover of darkness. With artillery in place upon Spion Kop, the country can be swept for three or four miles around. The Boer positions on two ridges running to the northwest and northeast at a level of 300 feet below are commanded by the summit.

Spion Kop is nine miles in a direct line from Dewdrop, where many important roads converge, and sixteen miles from Ladysmith. If the Boers are forced back from their present position, two roads from Trichard's Drift and Pottgieter's Drift, which converge on Dewdrop, should be set free for Warren's division and Lyttleton's brigade.

No list of casualties in the recent fighting has been received, but the Daily Mail states that Gen. Woodgate, one of Warren's brigade commanders whom Buller reported to be dangerously wounded, has since died.

In view of the hard fighting Gen. Buller may need considerable reinforcements, while the Ladysmith garrison is probably short of ammunition and will not be able to give much help till the relief column draws much nearer to the town.

Think the War Balloon Is a New Deity. The war is responsible for increasing the number of fetishes and sinking the natives still more deeply in the mire of superstition. The natives in the neighborhood of Ladysmith have come to the conclusion that the war balloon is a new and unusually potent deity. They thought the same of the bag-pipers in the last Zulu war, and one old warrior thus expressed himself: "White man carry his god under his arm; pinch him and then he squeal for black man's blood. Very bad that." But the balloon must seem even more incontestably supernatural than the piper.

Hunter, the millionaire mine owner, and the home of J. C. Ritchey, adjoining. The first dynamite explosion occurred Sunday night at the Carbonate theater, wrecking the rear of the building. The second was in the rear of the courthouse, breaking windows. No one has as yet been injured in the explosions. The police are at a loss to ascribe a motive for these outrages. Several suspicious characters have been arrested.

ROBERTS IS BARRED OUT.

Majority Report Adopted by Vote of 278 to 50.

EXPULSION DEFEATED 244 TO 81.

He Leaves the House Just Prior to the Ballot—Insists That It Was a Newspaper Campaign of Calumny That Aroused Public Opinion Against Him.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Brigham H. Roberts was excluded from the house of representatives at the close of a three days' debate on the question whether he should be excluded or expelled, by a vote of 278 to 50, the resolution reported by the minority of the special committee declaring that Roberts was entitled to be sworn in, but that then he should be expelled, had been defeated—81 to 244.

The debate preceding the vote was engaged in by Messrs. Sims of Tennessee, Johnston of West Virginia, Adamson of Georgia and De Armond of Missouri, in support of the minority resolution; by Messrs. Brosius of Pennsylvania, Talbert of South Carolina, Ray of New York, Freer of West Virginia, Moody of Massachusetts, Grosvenor of Ohio, Morris of Minnesota and Latham of Texas, in support of the majority resolution, and by Messrs. Brick of Indiana and Green of Pennsylvania who wanted Roberts expelled by a definite declaration to that effect.

As the hour approached for taking the vote the galleries filled up, and when the clerk began calling the roll on the substitute resolution Mr. Roberts left by the east door, and he did not hear the announcement that shut him off from the privileges of the floor. This vote practically ended the fight, and after expressing their satisfaction over the result many of the occupants of the galleries left, so that when the final vote was announced the applause was not so great as it otherwise would have been.

Upon being told the result, Mr. Roberts declared that it was a campaign of newspaper calumny, which had aroused public opinion so that justice was refused him. Asked what action, if any, would be taken toward obtaining his rights to a seat, Mr. Roberts said he did not know what form the action would take, but was of opinion that the state of Utah would appeal the matter to the Supreme court of the United States.

ADrift WITH WIFE'S CORPSE.

Husband, Father and Brothers Eight Hours on an Ice Floe. Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 26.—Adrift eight hours with the corpse of his wife in an open boat caught in an ice floe on Lake Erie is the experience of James Slevin of this city, who has just returned here in a prostrated condition.

Slevin's wife died here last week, and he wished to inter her body on Kelleys' island, where she was born and where he married her. Slevin, with the body, accompanied by his wife's father, Patrick Berry, and two brothers-in-law, Patrick and Thomas Casey, and George E. Hughes, embarked at sunrise in three boats in charge of the Elfers brothers.

When half way out the boats were caught in the ice and a heavy fog, and for eight hours the men pushed their way through the cakes of ice without compass, and nearly died with the intense cold. When the shore was reached at last the passengers had to be carried to the lighthouse.

Oppose Meat from America. Washington, Jan. 26.—Consul Winter of Aunzberg and Consul-General Guenther of Frankfurt inform the department that the Austrian butchers, at a recent convention, called a congress of all the butchers of continental Europe to deliberate upon ways and means of checking the growth of meat monopolies, the importation of unwholesome products, and the spread of American competition. It is expected the German Butchers' association will join with the Austrians in their demand for exclusion.

Dewey and Tanner to Meet. Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—Citizens of Jacksonville have invited Gov. Tanner and his staff to be present at the Dewey day celebration, May 3, when Admiral Dewey will visit the state encampment of the G. A. R. Gov. Tanner accepted the invitation for himself and staff, saying he would grant permission for the Fifth infantry and such detachments of the naval militia of Illinois as were wanted at the celebration, with the understanding that the attendance of the militia organizations will be voluntary.

Miners and Operators Still Apart. Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—When the miners and operators met Thursday the former were ready to place their proposition before the conference, but the miners' scale committee had not yet agreed, and the discussion of a motion to admit the Iowa operators occupied much time before the motion was defeated. This caused more feeling. All are in bad humor, and the outcome is impossible to forecast. It would surprise neither side if the Illinois situation prevented an adjustment of the differences, quite apart from the Pennsylvania anthracite difficulty.

Progress of Quick Poison Case. Peru, Ind., Jan. 26.—At the trial of Mrs. Edith Quick, a neighbor woman testified that when Quick came to her house the night previous to his death and asked for quinine for his headache, she said she had none to give him. The defense questioned the woman as if she might have given him arsenic by mistake for quinine. Dr. J. N. Hurty of Indianapolis, secretary of the state board of health, testified to finding six grains of arsenic in the portion of Quick's stomach examined.

Molnoux Jurer Succumbs to "Flu." New York, Jan. 26.—One of the jurors who are trying Molnoux for murder has succumbed to the grip, now frequently spoken of as the "flu." This new descriptive word is of London coinage, and was brought here by some of those who were prostrated by the London type of the disease, which has said to have been severe this year. No one can tell whether the illness of this juror will cause a delay of a day or two or three weeks.

Patrons' Manufacturing Plant Falls. Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—William H. Mitchell of Chicago has purchased at master's sale the plant of the Patrons' National Manufacturing company and 692 acres of land, known as Mildred. The price was $34,000. Mildred was projected some five years ago by a number of grangers, who intended to form a model town for the manufacture of farm implements for the entire country.

Farmer Thrifty got the idea that if he could keep a horse without the cost of feeding, it would be a great economy, so he reduced the horse's food a little every day. Unfortunately the experiment promised to succeed, the horse laid down and died. Farmer Hurdense says Farmer Thrifty was a fool. But there are people as much worse.

than old Thrifty as it is more foolish to work your own body under starvation conditions, than your horse's. But every farmer has plenty to eat. Yes, but it isn't what is eaten, it is what nourishment is obtained from food that decides the question of starvation. It wouldn't do the farmer any good to run a stack of wheat through a thrashing machine which was so out of gear that it didn't get the grain out of one head of wheat in fifty. That's just the way with the disordered stomach. It doesn't get the good out of the food that is eaten.

There is no medicine will so quickly act on the organs of digestion and nutrition, and put the stomach in perfect working order, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes pure blood, and rich blood, and puts the body on a plane of perfect health.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed physicians but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. C. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Arkansas. "I felt there was no help for me. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellies,' and improved from the start. I am now in good health."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels healthy.

MURIEL'S MINIATURE.

She Gave Her Heart to One Man and Promised Her Hand to Another, but Fate Ordained
That a Wrong Should Be Righted.

"I'm the last person in the world," Mrs. Molyneux said, making a great show of darning a stocking that was a vast deal more hole than anything else, "to advise a girl to marry for money and nothing else. But I know few things so wearying as a long engagement to a poor man who lives almost upon hope."

The girl had not looked down. Her eyes were blazing.

"I would rather you explained yourself," she said, and, though her voice was low, there was intense passion in it. "There is no need you should beat about the bush. You are hitting at me and Bertie, of course."

"I am alluding to you and Bertie. I am hitting at no one. Bertie has nothing; you have nothing. I am a widow, blessed with the proverbial widow's mite, only far, far too poor to bestow it upon any one. You are the oldest of the family. If you marry well, it may mean much to your sisters; every one thinks that the standard is set by the way the eldest sister marries."

Muriel stifled a little half cry. She looked round at her sisters, but none of them glanced up; all were in sympathy with their mother. If Muriel married Colonel Corbet, there might be a good time for all of them; if, as they termed it, she "stuck" to Lieutenant Bertie their participation in the joys of married life would be simply a "come over and help us" when any domestic crisis occurred.

"You forget that I love Bertie," she said, "and that Bertie loves me. It would not matter so much about my heart, but it would break his if I gave him up."

There is an old saying, however, and a very true one, that "dripping water wears away stone," and so it happened that after a time Muriel consented to give up her dear love, her dream of happiness, and accept the colonel.

It was the night before Omdurman. The officers of the Anglo-Egyptian army sat in council.

"We'd better turn in," an officer said at length. "There is nothing more to settle. God only knows when we shall sleep again—or it may be the long sleep. There will be work enough tomorrow." So with "Good night, good night," they took their ways to their quarters, Colonel Corbet going alone to his. He had not gone far when he heard quick steps behind him. He turned, his hand instinctively on his sword; treachery was not unknown.

But the moonlight shone upon a haggard young face, on despairing eyes, on the queen's uniform. The colonel's hand dropped from his sword.

"You, Connolly?" he said. "Anything wrong?"

"I've a favor to ask," he answered. "I've had bad news—my deathblow—from England today. If there's a 'forlorn hope,' a desperate venture for any man tomorrow that you have it in your power to give, will you give it to me? We English always fight best when we fight almost against hope, and I've none. I want a bullet to find its billet here—here," striking his breast.

They had reached the colonel's quarters and entered together.

Bertie turned suddenly. Just behind the colonel a curtain hung. He had seen it move; had seen a dark hand just creeping around the edge.

"There's no time to say anything, no time to consider. In a moment he had whipped out his pistol and fired; in another moment he had sprung up and stood with his back to the colonel's chair. In an instant two swords pushed the curtain aside. Two dark, evil looking men glared on. In less time than it takes to narrate one fell with a groan, a bullet in his heart, and almost before the colonel's sword was out of its scabbard Bertie staggered back to the table, a sword thrust in his breast, and dragging the curtain with him. The other traitor dropped to the ground.

Bertie lifted his hand, and it closed over something—something that hung by a ribbon around his neck.

"Bury—with me—promise, colonel," he said, and then a spasm of pain, almost the rending asunder of body and soul, made the miniature slip from his hand.

The colonel put it back, clasped his hand over the helpless fingers and held them so, but not before he had seen with a start whose face was there, and his own was very pale.

Two months later, in the drawing room of her mother's house, Muriel waited for her elderly lover.

"I am glad to see you home," she said. "You have been wounded?"

"Yes," he answered, and he forgot the rest. "I have been wounded. Was it quite fair to me, Muriel? I wanted to win your heart, not to steal it from another man. There, don't look frightened; I'm hurt, but I'm not angry, and I've brought you something from Egypt just to show you we're the best of friends still."

"Friends?" she repeated.

"Yes," he said, "fast friends." And, taking her hands, he kissed them. "But keep the ring, Muriel, and I'll keep the miniature. And now come."

He took her to another room. He opened the door. He heard two enraptured voices say "Muriel!" "Bertie!" Then he turned away.—Condensed From Lloyd's Weekly.

Paper in China and Japan.
Rice straw is an important factor in the manufacture of Japanese machine made paper. Only when there is a poor rice crop is wood fiber imported to any appreciable extent.

Among the most curious things to be seen in Japan are jackets and trousers of strong, handmade paper, with which the Japanese soldiers were supplied during the war between Japan and China. The seams and buttonholes were sewed with cotton thread.

Chinese handmade papers are made mostly of rice straw and are colored or stained on one side by hand—for instance, crimson for visiting cards, which are thin, large, octavo sheets; pale red for bills, yellow sprinkled with gold or green for wrapping goods, orange for wedding linery, etc. Large quantities are consumed in the principal place of its manufacture for decorating various places of worship, which are visited by Chinese from all over the country, and considerable quantities are also sent to the adjoining provinces.—Journal of Art.

A Detailed Map of Rock County . . .

Work is now in progress on a new wall map for Rock County. In size it will be 42x47 inches, mounted on cloth, and each township (of which there are twenty) will be neatly colored. The county will be represented on the scale of 1½ inches to the mile and will show the location of streams, lakes, cities, villages, school houses, churches, town houses and residences, public roads and railroads. It will also locate the farms, giving the number of acres and the name of the present owners wherever it is possible to do so. As fast as the drawings of the townships are completed they are verified so that the map will be as nearly correct as possible. The work will be of great value to business and professional men and farmers, and should find place in every school house in the county. The last wall map of the county was made a great many years ago, so that this new one will fill a long felt want.

The Price is $6.00.

Only enough of the Maps will be printed to fill orders. This fact should be borne in mind by those interested. Agents will begin the work of canvassing at once; orders may be given them and may also be sent to us in care of The Gazette office. BLOW TO THE DIME NOVEL.

No Detective of the Secret-Service Bureau Disguises Himself.

"No such things as disguises are used by men of the secret-service bureau," said Chief Wilkie of that organization to a Washington Star man. "The boy who reads the 10-cent literature describing the many lightning changes and disguises made by alleged sleuths of the government and other services imagines these stories to be true, and the impressions he receives remain with him for a long time. As a matter of fact, no detective is known, and I do not know of such a thing as a disguise for a secret-service case ever worked by an operator of the bureau in which false faces or other articles of this kind have ever been used. I do not know of a reputable detective in any city or state who uses disguises. They are not effective, and the best-informed men in the running down of criminals believe that they do harm and quickly expose the man who is attempting to operate a case. The men of the secret-service of the government frequently clothe themselves to suit the vicinity and the people among whom they are at work. For instance, if a man is at work in an agricultural vicinity and among people who would suspect the attire of a well-dressed person, he does not wear the best clothes or linen which has been finished by a Chinaman or a steam laundry. His attire is in keeping with his situation and circumstances. He may let his beard grow long and become careless in keeping his clothes dusted. If he is at work in a city among Italians, for instance, he reports himself in such a way as to keep from advertising himself as a detective of the government. If he did not he would be unable to acquire information from the class of people who were perpetrating the violations of the laws of the United States. Everything depends on the necessities of the case, but under no circumstances would we permit an operator of the bureau to bother with such cheap articles as wigs, false faces, mustaches and the like."

Growth of the Telephone System.
It is stated that the close of the year will see 3,500 independent telephone exchanges in operation, having over 750,000 instruments. In 1880 there were under rental use in the country 60,873 telephones. One year later the number had increased to 132,992. In 1898 the number of telephones in use was over 1,000,000. In 1885 there was in use in the various systems and modes of building 127,223 miles of telephone wires. At the beginning of this year the mileage had increased to 1,153,000 miles. The use of the telephone is more common in the United States than in any other country.
